Dear Sir:

Whether you are a new customer or one of those regular buyers who have used our fine Roses for many years, we have a message for you. Here it is—

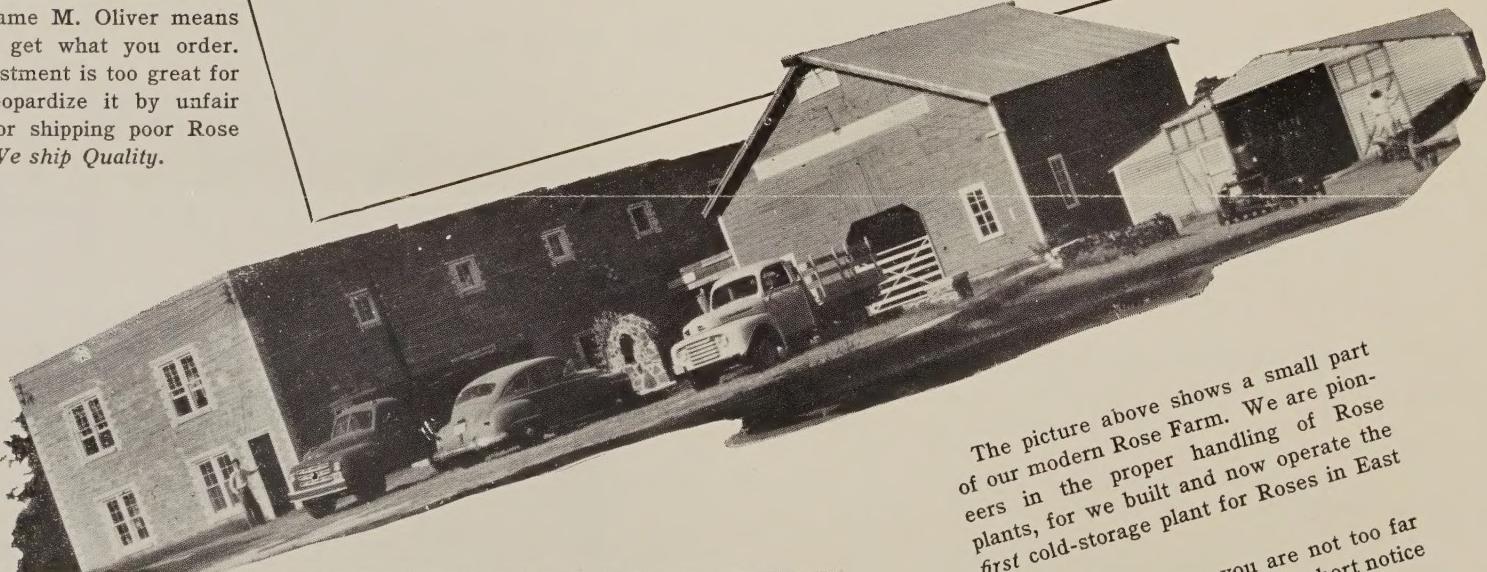

Only by shipping first-class stock, liberally graded and true to name, can we continue to hold your orders year after year. We have done just that.

Reputation, good or bad, will always catch up with you. Ours must be good, judging by the number of new names added to our list of regular customers each year.

To you who have not bought from us before we make this suggestion: You may have a satisfactory source for Roses but would it not pay to check our quality and prices? There must be a reason why so many are switching to M. Oliver Roses. You may be missing something. It is better to have two sources of supply than just one. Try us.

Sincerely,
M. Oliver

The name M. Oliver means you will get what you order. Our investment is too great for us to jeopardize it by unfair dealing or shipping poor Rose plants. We ship Quality.

The picture above shows a small part of our modern Rose Farm. We are pioneers in the proper handling of Rose plants, for we built and now operate the first cold-storage plant for Roses in East Texas.

Always remember, you are not too far away for us to come to you on short notice to discuss your Rose needs.

We are Rose Growers—not Brokers.

Buy from a reliable firm with a background. It pays in the long run. Due to the fact that Roses are of a perishable nature, we must ask that all claims for which we might be responsible be made within five days after receipt of order.
